

GEOLOGY

A

Geo 100N Planet Earth (3)
A survey of current developments in our understanding of the evolution of the earth. Major topics covered will include composition and origin of the earth-moon system, seismology and earth structure, plate tectonics, origin of continents and oceans, and the origin of life. ~~Three lectures each week. Fall and spring sessions.~~

(0118) S. Baldwin
Session 2
M-F, 11:00-12:20pm
ES 232

A

Geo 497 Independent Study (2-3)
A field or laboratory investigation of a chosen geologic problem, including the writing of a research report to be undertaken during the senior year. Prerequisite: permission of instructor. Students may repeat course once for an additional two or three credits. ~~Either session.~~

(0119) Staff
Session 2
Arr
Arr

Graduate Courses

A

Geo 694 Directed Readings in Geology (2-6)
A selected problem, involving topics studied in any of the 400 level or higher courses. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.

(0120) Staff
Session 2
Arr
Arr

A

Geo 898 Doctoral Research (2-9)

This course is for Ph.D. candidates, for research directly related to their dissertation work. It is intended to distinguish between such work and independent study not directly related to the student's research. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.

(0121) Staff

Session 2

Arr

Arr

Division of Continuing Studies

State University of New York at Albany

*Bill - OK I assume.
Steve*

MEMORANDUM

TO: Steven E. DeLong, Chairman, Geological Science
FROM: Martin Fogelman, Summer Sessions Coordinator
DATE: January 10<sup>5</sup>, 1985
SUBJECT: Summer Session Schedule Draft

Attached is a draft of your department course offerings as they have been submitted to the printer. If there are any errors in the copy, please notify me immediately by phone at 455-6129. We expect to submit final corrections by January 30, 1985.

Thank you.